📖 Study activities

International mediation competition "ICC Paris 2021"

Participation in the ICC Paris International Mediation competition on 5 through 11 February 2021. Several times a week, the team (the students and the coach) would discuss the process of negotiation, the subtleties of communication, the process of mediation, including preparation for it, and would review international documents. Our team competed against four other teams out of forty-eight international teams and won the nineteenth place.

International cross-examination competition „Cross-Examination Moot 2022 Edition“

Participation in the International Cross-Examination Tournament "Cross-Examination Moot 2022 Edition" on 28 November through 2 December 2022. Consistent preparation of the case material and clarification of cross-examination techniques with the coach several times a week. Analysis of the cross-examination process as such (specifics of asking questions), compilation of "question maps" with references to the case file and competing in four examinations against four different international universities.

International arbitration competition „The 31st Vis Moot: Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot“ (2024)

Participation in the International Commercial Arbitration Competition attended by 373 international teams, which was held between 6 October 2023 and 28 March 2024. Consistent analysis and application of the case file, case law and doctrine in the preparation of the judicial documents during the first semester of the proceedings on both the claimant's and the respondent's side. In the second semester, this was followed up by in-depth preparation for the oral presentation of the represented party's position on procedural and substantive legal issues. During this part of the oral phase, particular attention was paid to the analysis of strategies and legal arguments in order to present the party's position to the arbitrators in the most effective and persuasive manner.
